

Hypothesis: To Prove my love for you.

Abstract: This is aimed to prove my love for you. The aim is to convince you by the end of this paper about the quantity of love I have for you and answer the question “why” which comes up everytime i say i love you.

It all started back when I met you and I started talking to you. I was immediately taken aback and I realised that well this is something

And this was probably where it all started.

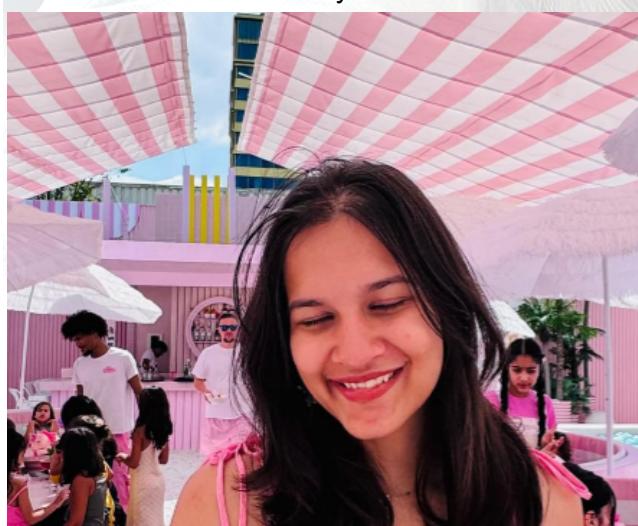

Then came the meeting you constantly everyday.

And then eventually on 27th August, came our first hug. Which was magical.

Then eventually came a loads of other things and many more to count(alot).

But the question still is why i love you, I LOVE YOU SO MUCH BECAUSE YOU ARE PROBABLY THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THINGS I HAVE LAID MY EYES UPON.

I cannot fathom the beauty this face holds.

And i still am unable to believe how I am able to call this beautiful human "mine" since the last 10 months, and equally unbelievable is that it HAS BEEN 10 WHOLE MONTHS OMG.

But i love you because you make me happy. Every single time I am with you. I am so happy, merely because of the things you do.

Be it randomly hugging or kissing me or u being happy just because i am there with you.

It is truly unreal to see how happy I get.

And small actions sure, but bigger actions leave that impact that i am happy for months after it happens, like the amazing birthday surprise I got to make this birthday the best birthday of my life.

I had never had a birthday this amazing and you changed that. You made me love my birthday again, that is yet another reason to love you.

Along with that, the super creative amazing gifts that just happen to come to your mind and you give me, be it the first ever astronaut pendant which was magnetic like what the fuck i was not prepared for something that cute, or the pocket watch which was equally fascinating, i have no idea how u do it but every goddamn time u get me a gift better than the last one. And every fucking time im equally astoinished.

I love you because of the way you make me feel on a daily basis, every day I feel better waking up coz i know you are waiting for my text mostly coz u wake up before me hahahaha. But still evry goddamn day I wake up and I am like wow she is waiting for me to wake up and the first words to come outta my mouth most days is Good morning baby, because that is something going around my head the moment i wake up and it has been so closely integrated into my life that it feels as normal as brushing my teeth or anything else.

I love you because of how addicted I am to you, I am addicted to you that I cannot survive a long time without a good dosage of you and I love it, and it is somehow the only addiction i have which wouldnt kill me but hopefully take me to live longer and better and healthier, everytime I am away from you I am like fuck i want her. And it is the most infuriating yet the most amazing feeling ever.

I love you because of how u reciprocate my efforts. The first time I gave u a letter I did not expect one back coz i was like i do it and she does something else because who else apart from me would write a letter but u did omg u did. U did write me a letter the very next week and planted kissies all over it for me to enjoy the weekend better. And even wrote all the cutsy stuff which u normally would hate to say to anyone let alone write it on a piece of paper and give it to me.

I love you because how much of a better and stronger person u make me feel. Just thinking of the recent things, how i was so homesick yet u stopped me from going home and told me why not to, and i was convinced, staying was probably one of the best decisions I made as i feel kinda stronger now ahhaha but yes that was so good and that being one of so so many things u have helped me do, i wouldnt be here if it werent for u(my deans list ki starting lines, illbe thanking u hehhe) and yes it is amazing how u make me a better person

I love you because of how i never get bored of talking to you. Everytime we skip everything and just end up talking through the night, It is never like fuck i have to talk sm today. It is always like o my god ill get to talk to her today and then end up talking for so so so long and everytime the conversation is either super meaningful and humorous and either way it is a fucking treat to be a part of the conversation so beautiful.

I love you coz i have done things in front of u that i never would(yes i am referring to that only) and you have been as normal as a normal person would never be and i was wowedddd by it coz wow, that was embarrassing but shit she surely makes it easy.

Conclusion: I love you. I love you so much and it is the best thing in the world, I cannot ask for anything more. And i have no complaints. You are the best. I love you. Hence proved.

